

Skyland Grain, LLC

Connecting Our Producers To The World

March 16, 2020

Skyland Grain's leadership team is working diligently to follow the rapidly changing situation regarding the COVID-19 virus (Coronavirus). As you are all aware, this is a very serious outbreak and we want to take the appropriate measures to ensure the safety and health of our valued employees, patrons and vendors.

During this time, we are encouraging our staff to follow virus prevention strategies such as hand washing and avoiding close personal contact when possible. We would also ask our patrons and vendors to avoid close personal contact at all of our locations to minimize the risk of exposure.

Our employees have been asked to use phone, email and text when possible for communicating with our patrons and vendors. We ask you to do the same when communicating with our staff. This precaution will limit the exposure for everyone.

Rest assured that our exceptional customer service remains even as we make temporary adjustments to our procedures and provide our employees with the necessary flexibility to care for their families. Skyland Grain's leadership team will continue to monitor the COVID-19 outbreak carefully. Please watch www.skylandgrain.com for updates.
