

Skyland Grain, LLC

Connecting Our Producers To The World

Contact Information for Our North & South Texas Grain Locations

With recent changes we understand you may have questions on who to contact to market grain or inquire about current contracts. This letter is intended to answer some of those questions and provide you updated contact information for the employees who can help you with your customer needs moving forward. There are many different types of contracts and grain marketing opportunities available through Skyland Grain, and it is our pleasure to assist you in finding what is available to fit your needs. Some of the valuable Skyland tools available online include Patron Access and Bushel App. Key features of these tools are the ability to view production and manage grain positions.

To better serve our patrons, we invite you to contact the following people with marketing questions about grain or about the online options mentioned above. Any of the three Grain Originators listed below can assist you with any of your customer needs. Nathan Raymond and Bryce Garrett will be your primary contacts for the North and Brent Wilhelm will be your primary contact for the South.
